Mastering the Art and Science of Beauty

Where do you go when your career has already taken you to Hollywood as a protégé of a world-renowned plastic surgeon??? And where do you go once you've experienced the fame of national TV — your story, your face chronicled before a watchful TV audience???

If you are Dr. Tony Youn, plastic surgeon to the stars, you enthusiastically go ... home.

"For all the lure of Beverly Hills, California, it is no place to raise a family," explains Dr. Youn, who is the father of a 7 month old boy. "For that, there is no place like Michigan. Here, I can practice a level of plastic surgery normally reserved for Hollywood actors — but I can do it with a Midwest sensibility. The goal is to achieve a look so natural and so uncontrived, that it could stand up to the scrutiny of tight Hollywood close-ups. In real life, people who don't know you shouldn't be able to tell you've had something done."

Dr. Youn recently co-authored a revolutionary article teaching other plastic surgeons the 3-D Volumetric Facelift. To understand this Hollywood procedure, you must first understand the act of aging. "Our faces grow old by a combination of sagging in our skin and a loss of volume (or fat) in the cheeks, under the eyes and even in the lips," he explains. "The 3-D Volumetric Facelift combines a natural return of volume — using fat transfer— along with a muscle-tightening facelift to improve the sagging." He studies early photos of his patients, taken over time, to determine the way the face has matured. "This tells me how to reverse the aging in the most natural way." While other facelifts focus on a two-dimensional tightening which can leave a person looking pulled and unnatural, the 3-D Volumetric Facelift adds that third dimension: volume. This creates the most realistic, youthful look possible.

For many 30- and 40-year-old actors and actresses, another procedure, facial fat grafting, turns back the years and improves the shapes of their faces. The process he uses has received national attention by the media, including the New York Times and Entertainment Tonight. Fat grafting can be used to accentuate the cheekbones and fill in the lips, which is often where people in their 30's and early 40's show their age. It will also improve the contour of a long or gaunt face and is sometimes used to fill depressions or facial defects. There was a time when you would undergo complex surgery to get the same flattering results Dr. Youn achieves now with this minimally invasive procedure.

It is the face that poses the ultimate challenge in plastic surgery and because of that, it is the face that holds special interest for Dr. Youn, a former portrait painter. It's the area of the body that allows him to be part surgeon and part artist, as well as a finely skilled craftsman. However, his talents are not reserved for the face alone. Elsewhere on the body, he is one of only two plastic surgeons in the state of Michigan who performs VASER LipoSelection. This ultrasonic technique can result in less downtime, faster recovery, and less discomfort than with traditional liposuction. He also specializes in Endoscopic Breast Augmentation, Hidden Scar Tummy Tucks, and a procedure that is known in Hollywood as the "Lollipop" Breast Lift.

Dr. Youn is certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery and a member of the American Society of Plastic Surgeons. He is the graduate of an Advanced Aesthetic Surgery Fellowship in Beverly Hills, California, and is the only Midwest plastic surgeon to be featured on the E! television show Dr. 90210. Dr. Youn's outstanding reputation has allowed him to become a consultant plastic surgeon to various national magazines such as Jane, OK!, Pink, and US Weekly. His comments can be seen regularly in Life and Style Weekly and In Touch Magazines.

His practice, the Hills Plastic Surgery and Laser Centre, is located in Rochester Hills. Dr. Youn's office also offers a complete skin care center. There, they provide medically-active treatments to reverse and prevent the aging process. They do not focus on spa treatments, which don't produce real changes. State-of-the-art laser treatments, microdermabrasion, chemical peels and anti-cellulite therapies are only some of their many effective offerings.

If you are looking for world class plastic surgery with uncompromising integrity, look no further than Dr. Anthony Youn. Safety is his top priority; therefore surgery is not performed in the back room of an office. Instead, it is done either at Beaumont Hospital in Troy or at Unasource Surgery Center. He is also on staff at Crittenton Hospital. Patient confidentiality is strictly maintained. Visit his website at www.beverlyhillsbeauty.com for more information and before-and-after photos. He looks forward to meeting you.
