

coverstory

BEFORE
JUNE 2005

AFTER
DECEMBER 3

Did Renée have a boob job?

She's got more curves sudden

When Renée Zellweger attended the Miss Potter

premiere in London, fans were stunned by her busty new look. It was as if the slender star had gotten her Bridget Jones curves back — without the weight gain!

Renée, 37, has confessed to missing the cleavage that came with her Bridget weight. "I don't get to keep the C-cup," she's said. "If I could, believe me, I would."

Celebrity plastic surgeon Dr. Anthony Youn, who hasn't treated any of these stars, thinks Renée could have gotten implants. "You lose fat in your breasts when you put on muscle, but hers have gotten bigger," he tells In Touch.

Renée's rep didn't respond to calls for comment.

She's bootylicious now, too!
The clingy, little black L'Wren Scott dress Renée wore to the London premiere of Miss Potter showed the actress has more curves from every angle. Her rounded rear view even inspired the British press to name her to the bootylicious hall of fame, alongside the world-class figures of Beyoncé and Jennifer Lopez.

BEFORE
SEPTEMBER 2005

AFTER
DECEMBER 3, 2006

Renée's figure has been yo-yoing for years!

MARCH 1999

Looking slender
At an Oscars party in 1999, the slim starlet was best known for her breakout role in Jerry Maguire.

SEPTEMBER
2000

Gained for a role
Renée packed on 20 pounds to play Bridget Jones by avoiding the gym and eating ice cream sundaes.

MARCH
2001

She lost it all
Just weeks after wrapping Bridget, a crash diet got Renée back to Hollywood-slim standards.

DECEMBER
2003

Bridget is back!
Renée earned the equivalent of $275,000 per pound gained to play Bridget in the sequel.

APRIL
2005

Scary skinny
After she dropped more than 30 pounds, Renée's stick figure had fans worried she'd gone too far.

Did Britney go under the knife?

She's busting out all over!

BEFORE
FEBRUARY 2006

AFTER
DECEMBER 7, 2006

While it's no surprise that Britney Spears' breasts are bigger since having her second son, Jayden, on September 12, they have looked suspiciously lifted and round—prompting rumors that the partying pop star got breast implants. Although the 25-year-old singer has been doing some wild and crazy things since she split from hubby Kevin in November, having breast surgery so soon after giving birth would be a surprise, since most surgeons recommend waiting six months, says Dr. Youn, who doesn't think Britney got implants recently. "It's not unusual for breasts to look this engorged after pregnancy, whether she is breast-feeding or not," he adds.

She's showing off in plunging or sheer styles

NOVEMBER 7

Bundled up?

The day she filed for divorce, Britney went ice-skating in this low-cut look. Hope she brought a scarf!

NOVEMBER 9

Her work outfit?

For a day in the studio to work on her new album, Britney let her push-up bra peek out.

NOVEMBER 10

Ho, ho, ho!

Britney showed her Christmas spirit, and her bra, after a night of clubbing in this sheer top.

NOVEMBER 26

Ready to party

The dress she wore to go out with Paris Hilton put Britney within an inch of a wardrobe malfunction.

DECEMBER 12

Better than ever

Even after rumors she was getting too wild, Britney went braless in a sheer white sweater at a party in L.A.

These stars look bustier, too!

NICOLE GOT CURVY

"I've wanted curves my whole life," says Nicole Kidman, 39, who often complains about her boyish figure. But in recent months, she's appeared more voluptuous, although Dr. Youn credits weight gain rather than surgery. "She still looks like an A or B cup," he says. Nicole, who's always desired Marilyn Monroe's curves, told a British magazine how she could get them: "If I had my own baby, I would have bigger boobs."

CARMEN'S REGRETS?

After saying she was sick of her huge implants, Carmen Electra, 34, was looking smaller. But now she seems to be back to buxom. Says Dr. Youn, "Women often don't like the way it looks when they get smaller implants because the skin is so stretched."

