

FAB

books even m

When the Olsen twins were asked to pose for a magazine spread, they didn't want to be the only blonde girls in the room.

So they asked for a blonde stylist. And when they found one, they found a stylist who was also a hairdresser. And when they found a hairdresser, they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser. And when they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser, they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser.

And when they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser, they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser. And when they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser, they found a hairdresser who was also a hairdresser.

THEN
First sign of a bump

Kate Moss of the Olsen twins, above left, is posing in a very similar pose to the Olsen twins. (Right) The Olsen twins, above right, are posing in a very similar pose to the Olsen twins. (Right) The Olsen twins, above right, are posing in a very similar pose to the Olsen twins.

STARTING OVER

KATE MOSS OVERCOMES BAD PRESS WITH NEW PROJECTS

Once a bad press story, now a good one. Kate Moss, the model who has been the face of Calvin Klein for years, is back in the news. This time, it's for a new project. She's starting over.

Kate Moss has been in the news for a long time. She's been the face of Calvin Klein for years. She's been in the news for a long time. She's been the face of Calvin Klein for years. She's been in the news for a long time. She's been the face of Calvin Klein for years.

We did an unscientific poll of chichi salons and learned you bring in pics of these ladies the most: Nicole Richie, Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen, Angelina Jolie and Kate Moss.

Trying to get hair like Kate's? Here's why it's not working.

Ever followed the tired advice of bringing a celeb photo to your stylist so he/she could re-create the haircut on you? And then you're all bummed when you leave, because your hair looks nothing like "hers"? Stylist and Matrix artistic designer Marco Guglielmino says that 99 percent of the time, people bring in a magazine picture with the exact opposite hair type (like coarse-haired brunettes bearing pics of fine-haired blond stars), which only leads to disappointment. Try to remember that said photo has been retouched to perfection and the starlet in it has a personal hairdresser who manipulates her God-given texture daily. Since your live-in hair guy probably exists, um, in your imagination, make an appointment but don't militantly dictate what you want—Marco says that spells trouble. Instead, find a stylist who will listen to you, but then make his own suggestions based on your specific hair type. —Courtney D.

"I want a famous nose."

According to top cosmetic surgeon Dr. Anthony Youn, these are the most requested.

Halle Berry

Marilyn Monroe

Jennifer Lopez

Britney Spears

Madonna

Your face is a reusable canvas

This new makeup rivals art supplies—we're talking superior blending and definition qualities, plus wicked colors. Chanel Precision Eye Definer in Seafoam, $27, smudges beautifully. Rub craftily delicious whipped Maybelline New York Dream Mousse Shadow in Lilac Cloud, $7, all over your lids like a kid gone wild with finger paint. Physicians Formula Eye Definer Felt-Tip Eye Marker, $7, will apply like you're lining your eyes with a Sharpie—so satisfying. And the Trucco Pretty Paints Collection Longwear Paints creamy eye/lip/cheek colors, $16 each, come in real-deal paint tubes. —Courtney D.

EYE DEFINER Felt-Tip EYE MARKER

Get shopping info on everything in Prim on page 138.