Paula's SUNKEN chest

Paula Abdul has always been described as perky, right down to her breasts. But when she stepped out for lunch on July 19, her assets looked positively frightening — with a large indent in the middle! “It looks like her breast implants are sagging, which usually happens over time with weight loss or simply having implants that are too large for the person,” says Michigan-based plastic surgeon Dr. Anthony Youn (who does not treat Paula). “That’s what could be causing the gap.” So what can she do? “The only way to tighten the skin is with a breast lift,” says Dr. Youn. Are you listening, Paula?
