

Just two months ago, more than a year into her healthy new lifestyle, Courtney looked very curvy.

When she hit the beach on March 30, she showed off a much thinner frame and sagging skin.

Courtney lost too much weight too fast!

The shocking new photo that has everyone talking

Jaws dropped when Courtney Love strolled along the Maui, Hawaii, beach on March 30, but no one was talking about her sudden slimdown — all eyes were on her lumpy tummy! Courtney recently admitted to losing 44 pounds through a macrobiotic diet, but her sagging stomach seems to point toward something else. Plastic surgeon Dr. Anthony Youn (who doesn't treat Courtney) says, "There are dents underneath her belly, which indicates past liposuction. But she couldn't get this thin with just lipo."

Others worry that her dramatic weight loss might be the first sign that the former drug addict could be relapsing. Although Courtney's business associate Tugger Balcom tells In Touch, "She has been sober for the last 15 months," her recent behavior in Hawaii is raising eyebrows. While getting her hair done at the Four Seasons hotel on March 28, "she nodded off to sleep several times. In order to finish, four attendants had to work on her: one to hold her shoulders, another to hold her head and two to do her hair," says an insider.

But Courtney's rep says, "She was not wasted on any drugs, as she was with her sponsor and her daughter [Frances Bean, 14]."