

Life & Style readers — and plastic surgery experts — decide!

94% OF READERS SAY: Absolutely not!

EXPERTS SAY: Scarlett Johansson has said she wouldn't rule out plastic surgery someday, but for now, it looks like she's rocking her own curves. "She tends to fluctuate with weight loss or gain," says Beverly Hills plastic surgeon Dr. Linda Li, who adds that "a good push-up bra and padding" may have given Scarlett a boost.

Breast augmentation is reportedly the No. 1 plastic surgery procedure in the U.S. - and the 13 percent increase in it in 2006 may have something to do with science! In November, the FDA reapproved silicone implants to overwhelming fanfare. "The use of silicone implants has been much greater than predicted," says Dr. Linda Li of the more natural-feeling, less-rippling alternative to saline implants.

92% OF READERS SAY: Seems certain!

EXPERTS SAY: Newly minted pop star Brooke Hogan may just be keeping up with the Joneses! "Her breasts appear to be elevated on her chest," Dr. Youn says about Brooke's probable amping up to a D-cup from a B-cup. "It can be a sign of swelling from recent surgery."

95% OF READERS SAY: Not a chance!

EXPERTS SAY: Tyra Banks became one trustworthy talk-show host after proving on air that her C-cuplooking assets are natural. "Her figure is proportional to her breast size," says Dr. Li. "Better support just lifts her more."